

PX Tungsten Carbide Cutters

Effective processing of PEEK

The new MEISINGER PX Tungsten Carbide Cutters have a fine X-cut, which is distinguished by its optimized cutting angle. Due to that the new PX Tungsten Carbide Cutters are especially suitable for the treatment of difficult-to-machine PEEK. PEEK is a high-performance synthetic material that is used more and more frequently in dental implantology and prosthetics.

For processing it demands a high level of performance from the milling cutters in order to obtain clean results. The special toothing of the PX Tungsten Carbide Cutters allows for effective removal of this high-performance PEEK and care for perfect results free from streaks. In combination with a low contact pressure, the PX Tungsten Carbide Cutters provide smooth PEEK surfaces which are optimally prepared for final finishing.
