

MEISINGER MX-Cutters

Unique carbide cutters for treatment of non-precious metal and model casting alloy

The MX Tungsten Carbide Cutters are used for treatment of non-precious metal and model casting alloy. The special toothing and the extremely resistant material care for a very efficient material removal and a pretty high service life at the same time. During the treatment of the material smooth surfaces are created, so they are optimally prepared for the following polishing process. Due to a precise manufacturing the cutters have great running smoothness, so a very user-friendly working is possible. The variety of cutter shapes allows many kind of uses. The MX Tungsten Carbide Cutters allow both an effective, large-area and a very precise, small-area working.
